New Children's Elderberry Immune premium gummies support immune and respiratory system health with 3 key nutrients:

- Elderberry - People have depended upon elderberry's powerful immune support for thousands of years! In fact, Hippocrates (460–375 BC), “The Father of Medicine," touted the elder bush as a "medicine chest." Historically, elderberry has been used in traditional medicine to support the immune and respiratory systems. During the Middle Ages, elderberry was considered a Holy Tree and people revered its capacity to "restore good health" and aid longevity. Indigenous people in North America also valued elderberry, using its berries and flowers for medicine and dyes. Elderberry naturally contains vitamin C, along with flavonoid derivatives called anthocyanidins that appear to have immunomodulatory effects. These compounds in elderberry extract have been found to bind to viruses and block their ability to invade host cells. In this way, elderberry may help reduce the severity of flu symptoms. Plus, elderberry contains active substances that stimulate the body to make cytokines, a type of protein molecule that enhances the immune system's response to attacks.

- Vitamin C - We all know vitamin C for its immune system benefits. It boosts immune function and may help the body stave off colds and flu. Plus, the adrenal glands need large amounts of this nutrient in order to help produce energy and support immunity. But did you know vitamin C is also the most powerful and readily available antioxidant in the diet and supports overall health and well-being? As an antioxidant vitamin, it protects cells from free radical damage. Plus vitamin C promotes strong bones, resilient cartilage and healthy skin! Vitamin C contributes to the normal function of bones and cartilage, and it supports collagen production. Kids don't care about that, but you might!

- Zinc - This vital trace mineral helps strengthen the immune system and supports it in multiple ways. Zinc protects against invaders old and new by supporting both innate and adaptive immune function, working on two separate levels to defend your health! Zinc may also help relieve symptoms of respiratory allergies and the common cold—it seems to work the best when taken at the first sign of concern. Plus, zinc supports healthy growth and development of strong bones.
